Principal's Message

Robin Yeargain

Dear EDUPRIZE Parents,

We've had a great week of learning and a great week of attendance for parent-teacher conferences. I was able to speak to many families and more importantly, you were able to meet with your child's teacher to see how your child is progressing. Thank you for making conferences a priority so that we can work together!

Spring Spectacular is next Friday! The new ticket price is affordable to make it a family fun event! Please see the flyers below and get your tickets now...you don't want to miss it!

We value your feedback! A major component of establishing a positive learning environment is the consideration of stakeholder feedback. Please take time to complete this brief survey to help us determine ways to maintain and improve our school climate.

Thank you and have a wonderful 3 day weekend!

Kindly,
Robin

(SOCIAL AND EMOTIONAL LEARNING)

For the next few weeks, I'd like to talk about student motivation. Does your child tell you (in words or actions) that they, "don't care"? The first step in targeting strategies you can use with your unmotivated child is to ask WHY the child appears unmotivated. Here are 3 likely causes:

- Power - your child may lack the resources, the opportunity, and/or the capability to influence the circumstances of his/her own life.
- Models- your child may not have the background knowledge to refer to an adequate amount of examples in order to establish meaningful values, ideals, and personal standards. This means - does your child actually know HOW to do the thing they are trying to do?
- Connectedness - your child may lack a sense of belonging, closeness, or affection to people that are important to him/her.

Sincerely,
Heather Vehon
